Vitaphone Pathe Gaumont

A FRIENDLY MARRIAGE. Vitaphone. A splendid picture which goes to show, after all, that "there is so much bad in the best of us, so much good in the worst of us, that it hardly behoves any of us to talk about the rest of us." A picture which holds the attention from start to finish both by the strong love motive and the charming setting and staging. PATHE'S WEEKLY. Pathe. An Animated Newspaper. Important events throughout the world in pictures. Things we read about but seldom see. An interesting film. A SOCIETY MOTHER. Gaumont. A drama delineating a real life story with a real life ending rather than the highly tragic or the perfectly happy climax common to most plays. A good story.

An Excellent Show

GLIDDEN TOUR HERE ON SUNDAY

Arrival of Big Automobile Tour from North to South Draws Many People to Centre Square. Welcomed all along the Way.

Greeted by several hundred Gettysburg people seventy two cars of the big Glidden automobile tour from New York to Jacksonville entered town Sunday afternoon, completing the second day of their run along the national highway from North to South.

Gettysburg gave a cordial welcome to the Gliddenites, about the first thing which greeted the eyes of the tourists after they entered the borough being a huge banner across York and Hanover streets "Welcome Glidden tourists, Better roads for 1912." As soon as each car reached the checking in station at the Weaver corner the local reception committee, J. Edward McCammon, Dr. E. H. Markley, W. F. Gilliland, Charles S. Duncan and John W. Brehm, presented the tourists with souvenir watch fobs bearing a keystone charm on which was a pretty model of the new Pennsylvania monument.

Local people lined both sides of York street and all four corners of the Square. More welcoming banners greeted the motorists as they entered the Square and the one across Chambersburg street "Our people are better than our roads" seemed to appeal to them especially.

Much complaint was heard about the roads between Gap and Lancaster and between New Oxford and Gettysburg. One of the entrants, as he read "Better roads for 1912" on the York street banner, was heard to remark "Well I hope so, after going over these last ten miles." Two of the seventy four cars which left Philadelphia Sunday morning were put out of the running by broken axles received some place along the day's route and a third car came in with the front axle very badly bent.

The run from Philadelphia was one continuous series of ovations. At all the towns along the road people were out in large numbers to welcome those participating in the big automobile event of the year, banners with hospitable greetings were out at many places and at Lancaster the tour was escorted into the city by about fifteen automobilists of that city who went out some miles to meet the visitors.

Governor Hoke Smith, of Georgia, who is receiving almost more attention than anyone in the tour was the guest of Governor Tener from Philadelphia to Lancaster, the Pennsylvania executive accompanying the run in his own car for that distance. At Lancaster the two governors and Mayor McClean lunched together and about one o'clock Governor Smith returned to his own car and continued with the Glidden entrants.

The pilot cars which preceded the contestants made an effort to warn the following cars of bad places in the roads and whenever a particularly bad gutter was crossed a bunch of confetti was dropped to warn the oncoming cars. The warning was in most cases misunderstood and many of the drivers increased their speed at these piles of paper to the discomfort of their passengers and the risk of their machines. Rain was encountered part of the way but this caused little unpleasantness, all being prepared for any kind of weather.

Some of the tourists after checking in took the battlefield trip. Governor Smith was one of these, Harry Gilbert being engaged to accompany him over the avenues. The majority of the tour, however, decided to park their cars in the Square immediately and went to their hotels, the Eagle, Gettysburg and City.

In the evening a complimentary lecture was given by the Gettysburg Automobile Club for all accompanying the Glidden tour. J. Warren Gilbert gave his illustrated lecture on the Battle of Gettysburg in the Wizard Theatre and it was greatly enjoyed, the tourists appreciating greatly the kindness of the local auto enthusiasts.

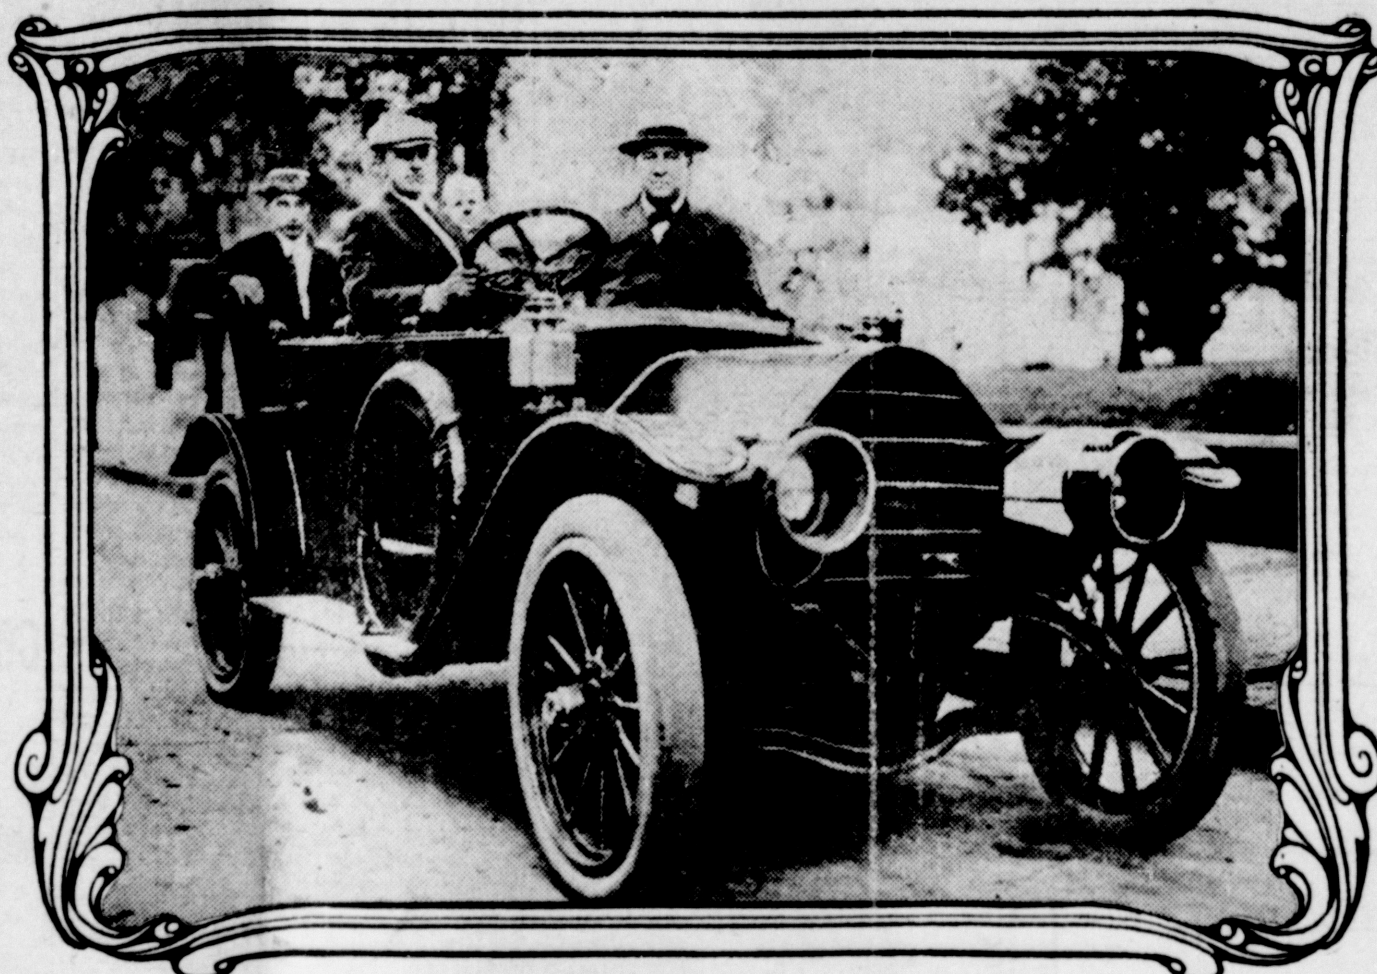

The cars, lined about all four corners of the Square and facing towards the center, attracted a great deal of attention Sunday night, some citizens remarking that it seemed to foretell the appearance of the curb market a few years hence.

The start for Staunton, Virginia, the third day's night control was begun at six o'clock this morning, the first of the contesting cars going at that hour though several of the official cars had left for the day's trip shortly after three o'clock.

IMPRISONED IN BOX CAR

Red Handkerchief Fluttering from Door of Freight Car Tells of Imprisoned Tramp. Chose Car of Waste Paper for his Travels.

A red handkerchief, fluttering from a rudely cut hole in the door of a box car, aroused the curiosity of the local Western Maryland switching crew sufficiently to cause them to open the car where they found a "knight of the road" thoroughly frightened over some hours' forced imprisonment.

The tramp had gotten into the car at Mount Holly Springs. It was loaded with waste paper consigned to Baltimore and the hobo made himself a comfortable couch on which he could spend the majority of his time traveling to the Maryland metropolis. While he was sleeping comfortably during the evening the local switching crew, who had transferred the car from the Reading to the Western Maryland, was busy sealing up cars and his abode was one of those thus closed.

Next morning the car was being placed in a train bound for Baltimore when several of the railroad men noticed a red handkerchief fluttering from a rudely cut hole in the door.

They called Mr. Mahama and he broke the seal, freeing the rather frightened passenger. It was thought that the prisoner had been given sufficient punishment for train riding and he was allowed to go without serving further time in the local lock-up.

SAW FIVE DEER

While hunting chestnuts in the mountains, Andrew Baker of Waynesboro, came face to face with two bucks and three does. Mr. Baker went to the mountains, with several other men, to gather chestnuts. While back of Shiner's mountains, about three miles north of the Old Forge, the party came out of the woods into an open space, and there in front of them, a distance of about twenty five feet, the flock of deer stood, cropping the grass. The scene was a pretty one, and the deer remained until Mr. Baker shouted, although they saw the men, and then they ran into the thickets of the mountains, leaping out of sight with remarkable rapidity.

BEAN IN LUNG PROVES FATAL

Young Son of Mr. and Mrs. James Plunkert, of Near Littlestown, Dies in York Hospital from Effects of Swallowing Bean.

The two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Plunkert, of near Littlestown, died in the York hospital on Friday from getting a bean in his lung.

On Thursday the child was with his older sisters and brothers, who were hulling beans, and put several of the beans in his mouth, one of which he inhaled. Dr. H. S. Crouse was summoned, who found the child in a very critical condition, with little hope of his recovery.

He, however, was taken at once to the York hospital where the wind-pipe was opened with the hope of locating the bean, but it had already entered the lung. A tube was then placed in his throat to give him as much relief as possible.

All efforts to save the child were unavailing, however, and death ensued on Friday at noon.

The remains were taken to the parental home from where the funeral was held.

ATLANTIC CITY

"DRY" ON SUNDAY

Observes Order For "Lid" to be Kept Down.

MANY THIRSTY "SUFFERERS"

Money Was Offered For Booze, With No Takers—Hip Pocket Weapons and Loaded Canes Much in Evidence.

Atlantic City, Oct. 16.—While showers kept things moist outside, inward things were dry, here yesterday. The usual side door latch string was not in evidence and drinks were as scarce as world's series base ball tickets with a demand of similar proportions. Two out of three persons about town appeared to have a thirst, but the eighty odd indictments handed in against saloonmen during last week had frightened the "lid" securely in place.

For once money was actually offered for booze, with no takers. Three drunks composed the lot jailed. There was an envious crowd around each drink-happy victim as husky minions of the law held them by the collar while calling the patrol. But the helpless prisoners had acquired their supply before midnight and were unable to answer the eager interrogations from the crowd as to the source of their "loads."

Hip pocket weapons were much in evidence and street speakies appeared now and then to temporarily slack the thirst of sufferers. Hollow canes loaded with "wet goods" were displayed along the boardwalk, and little knots of visitors gathered together in corners of pavilions or in sheltering doorways usually denoted that the walking sticks were pretty "loose at the joints."

Promptly at midnight Saturday the booze supply ceased. Patrons who chanced to be in the cafes were prevailed upon to leave. Music stopped with the shutting off of the liquor and the lights were dimmed.

It was the first time the town had actually gone "dry" since Governor Fort four years ago managed to close the resort for one Sunday.

Last night there was a general "celebration" when things were opened at midnight. It was something new and novel and the town was able to take ample cognizance of the fact. How long the boycott on Sunday liquor will exist is problematical.

COURT OF CLAIMS

CONVENES TODAY

Millions Hinge on Decisions in Suits.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Claims involving millions of dollars and suits against the federal government, in which claimants are trying to secure patent royalties and damages of other kinds await the decision by the United States court of claims, which began its fall session today.

The most important case approaching decision is the claim of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad for damages of $61,287,000, for lands that it declares were originally granted to the railroad and afterwards granted by the government to Indians.

One of the interesting cases soon to be argued before the court of claims is the demand of Frank G. Parnham, of Honesdale, Pa., for royalties on the method used by the government in preparing the stamp book sold at all postoffices. Mr. Parnham says he invented the method of binding the books and the government is paying no royalty.

The claim of Captain John J. Knapp, U. S. N., for patent royalties of $150,000 for a safety apparatus now used in battleships to prevent explosions in the turrets, also has been argued and is awaiting decision.

SEVEN DEAD IN WRECK

Twenty-two Injured in Crash on Missouri Pacific Near Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 16.—Seven persons were killed and twenty-two injured, four of them seriously, in a collision between a Missouri Pacific passenger train and a fast freight train at Fort Crook, ten miles south of this city.

Governor Gilchrist, of Florida, was a passenger on the northbound train, but was uninjured. The dead are: Miss Francis Lillian Kronka, Washington.

F. W. Petring, merchant, Nebraska City.

O. W. Keeler, passenger brakeman, Atchison, Kan.

BANKRUPT BY "13"

Merchant, Whose Store Was No. 1313, Failed on Friday the Thirteenth.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Louis Skaler, a merchant, who operated a store at 1313 H street, believes that "13" is a hoodoo.

He got the double-cross on Friday, the thirteenth, and asked the district supreme court to adjudge him a bankrupt.

Mr. Skaler's attorney, Alvin C. Newmeyer, declared that he is "not the least bit superstitious," but he thinks so many thirteens tripped his client.

The witch, dressed in red and in uncanny things of various sorts, will present each one with a tall lighted candle and a paper funnel. Through the latter each one must try to blow out the candle flame after having made a wish. If successful the wish will come true. This is not as easy as it looks, you will find.

OUT OF THE SAVAGE STATE

By DAVID WALTER CHURCH
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

From the time America was discovered, to say, half a century ago there were repeated cases of white children being carried away by Indians and brought up in the tribe. Those that were raised by red men were boys. At any rate, I never read of a girl having received such treatment. Doubtless any girl falling into their hands was killed. Savages are not overburdened with respect for the value of women.

Some forty years ago I was a young lieutenant in the 4th U. S. cavalry, and my principal business about that time was fighting Indians. In one of our skirmishes with the Sioux we captured one of the white boys who had been brought up as an Indian. He was a handsome little fellow, tall and straight, about fourteen years old, and his originally white skin from having been exposed had turned brown. He could speak only the Sioux language; could not remember any life but that of an Indian, any father or mother or other relative. When captured he was fighting like a little devil.

The colonel turned him over to me to see if I could discover his identity. I questioned the Indians who had been captured with the boy, but they knew nothing of his antecedents, since they had captured him from another tribe when he was about four years old. I then questioned the boy himself—through an interpreter—and found that he had once been shown the clothes in which he had been captured and some trinkets that were taken from those to whom he had belonged. These were a pocketbook, a gold watch and chain, and various other things the boy could not remember. They had been kept by an old squaw, who received them at the boy's second capture from another squaw, to whom they had been given by the chief of the tribe who had taken the baby from his parents.

Having reported this to the colonel, he directed me to ride under a flag of truce to the main body of the Sioux, secure the articles and bring them back if possible. He authorized me to pay $50 for them, if necessary. I went to the Sioux camp, purchased the articles for a song and brought them back with me.

Besides the watch and the pocketbook was a tincture of a baby, and a resemblance could be traced between it and the boy. There were also some lace and a bunch of keys on a silver ring. I examined the contents of the pocketbook. It was a long leather one such as is used to carry unfolded bills. If there had been any bills in it they were not there when I looked into it. There were papers the use of which were very plain to me, but would mean nothing to an Indian. For instance, there was a deed to a lot in the county of Cook, state of Illinois. There were a draft on a bank in San Francisco and two little books that I recognized as savings bank books.

I reported the find to the colonel, and he forwarded my report to Washington. After a long period, during which we kept the boy—much against his will—at Fort G., to which we returned after the campaign, the colonel received an order to detail some one to take the boy to the places indicated by the deed and the savings bank books, with a view to learning who he was. The colonel gave me the job.

Looking on the map of Illinois, I discovered that Cook county was the site of Chicago. One of the bank books indicated an account in a bank at Peoria and another in Quincy, both in the same state.

I set off in company with the boy, who by this time had learned a little English, and on reaching Chicago found the lot in question to be in the heart of the city. The deed was in the name of Edgar Kyle. This also was the name on the savings bank books and the draft on San Francisco. The draft was for $3,000, the accounts in the savings banks amounted to an aggregate of $6,743, and the lot in Chicago had within a few years become worth about $100,000.

Pursuing my investigations, I discovered that Edgar Kyle some twelve or thirteen years before had emigrated or started in a plains schooner for California with his wife and baby, but had never been heard from after leaving the Missouri river.

I felt very sure that they had been murdered by Indians, their baby carried off, that I now had him under my care, and he was doubtless heir to a very good property. But I saw very little hope of his possessing it.

On his baby clothing were the initials "E. K." and on this evidence I collected the draft and the accounts in the savings banks for him. With this as a starter I succeeded in having the court of chancery appoint a guardian for him, and proceedings were begun to secure the lot, which had been bought in under a foreclosure of the mortgage for $2,500. A flaw in the foreclosure was discovered which enabled young Kyle's guardian to recover the property for him by paying the mortgage with interest.

Meanwhile Kyle was being educated and is now a prominent resident of a western city. He still holds the Chicago lot, which is worth three-quarters of a million. He says his boyhood passed with the Indians, now seems to him like a weird dream, though for several years after becoming civilized he often had longings to return to a savage life. But realizing that a better life was before him he resisted and now rejoices that he did.

SNAPSHOTS AT CELEBRITIES

James Rolph, Jr., Who Will Be Mayor of San Francisco.

James Rolph, Jr., who was chosen mayor of San Francisco at the recent primary election, will not need to go to the polls for ratification at the regular election in November, the vote in his case being final.

Under the new law the two candidates for each office receiving the highest number of votes in the primary are declared the nominees, but if one candidate receives a majority of all the votes he is declared elected. The old three, four, five or even six cornered contests, through which a candidate might slip into office by a mere plurality, is done away with. Mr. Rolph, having received a majority of all votes cast, is therefore the regularly elected chief executive. His opponent, P. H. McCarthy, the present mayor, was completely overwhelmed.

The new mayor elect is a native of San Francisco and is forty-two years of age. He is a shipowner, a member of the firm of Hind, Rolph & Co. In 1902 he was made president of the Shipowners' association and won the confidence of the union sailors by his fair treatment. In the recent campaign he had the support of nearly all the labor union forces, which had turned against McCarthy.

A NOTED FEDERAL JUDGE.

Peter S. Grosscup, presiding judge of the United States circuit court of appeals for the northern district of Illinois, who recently announced that he would retire from the bench, has served nineteen years and decided many important cases. He was one of the three judges who prepared the opinions which relieved the Standard Oil company of the famous $20,000,000 fine imposed by Judge Landis. Another case was when application was made to the federal courts to close the World's Columbian exposition on Sundays in 1893 Judge Grosscup dissented and ruled that the exposition should be kept open every day in the week.

It was he who issued the injunction against Eugene V. Debs and other officers of the American Railway union during the railway strike of 1904 in Chicago restraining the labor men from committing acts of violence, and it was he again who later called upon President Cleveland to send federal troops to Chicago to preserve order.

Judge Grosscup has been a lifelong Republican and owes his appointment to a Republican president.

Recently he analyzed the two great political parties to the detriment of his own and predicted a complete Democratic victory in the next national campaign.

Judge Grosscup is a native of Ohio and is in his sixtieth year. He was graduated from the Boston Law school in 1874 and began the practice of law at Ashland, O. In 1882 he went to Chicago, where he practiced until appointed to the bench.

MOSQUITO DRUNK ON GASOLINE EXPLODES

Prize Story Comes From North Tarrytown, N. Y.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Mosquitoes in Cortlandt street, North Tarrytown, have become gasoline drunk and are terrorizing the town.

A family of mosquitoes in the home of James Brady started biting up the gasoline in Mr. Brady's car and when they flew back into the house they were in an awful condition. One tried to alight on Mr. Brady's nose as he was lighting his pipe, and it exploded with a loud report and set fire to the mattress.

Mrs. Brady was badly burned trying to put it out, and Mr. Brady was burned in the face. Neighbors are afraid that the jag habit will spread and the town will have to remain in darkness. The question now is how long does a gasoline jag last?

35,000 PERSONS HONOR GIBBONS

Fifty Years Since He Was Ordained a Priest.

CARDINAL FOR 25 YEARS

The Baltimore Cathedral Was a Scene of Churchly Splendor and All Sections of the Country Were Represented in Services.

Baltimore, Oct. 16.—Surrounded by 35,000 friends and admirers, both in and out of the clergy, and with all the pomp and circumstance that the Catholic ritual provides for such occasions, Cardinal Gibbons celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination as a priest and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the cardinalate.

Congratulations are being showered on him, famous prelates and laymen from all over the country are in Baltimore to pay him honor.

The cathedral, where the pontifical high mass was celebrated, was packed to its utmost capacity, and squads of policemen had to fight to keep back the eager thousands for whom there was no room.

Inside the cathedral was a scene of churchly splendor such as Catholics have witnessed in this country but rarely.

In the body of the church every seat and every inch of standing room was filled, while in the sanctuary were the clergy.

Amid the blocks of priests, the purple of the bishops and the white of the acolytes, the rich red scarlet of the cardinal's habit made him in a most striking manner the center of the whole picture, which was brilliantly lighted, and for which the richly decorated altar made a fitting background.

Despite the passing years, the cardinal is still most active, and as he moved about the crowded sanctuary or walked from his residence in the jubilee procession, his step was elastic, his head was held high and there was no sign of fatigue.

At the cardinal's residence were the cardinal, apostolic delegate Falconio and the archbishops. At Calvert Hall college were the bishops, abbots, monsignors, chaplains, members of the faculty of the Catholic university, priests, seminarians and the students of St. Charles college, all dressed in the vestments of their rank.

The rule of juniority prevailed in the order of procession.

As the clocks of the city struck the hour for starting the procession moved slowly north on Cathedral street to Franklin, turned east on Franklin street to Charles street and slowly approached the cardinal's residence between thousands of spectators who lined the sidewalks and filled the neighboring windows.

As the procession reached the arch-episcopal residence the cardinal, surrounded by other dignitaries of the church, joined the march and the paraders filed slowly along Mulberry street to the doors of the cathedral, entering through the lanes of spectators who crowded the grounds.

The pontifical mass began at 11 o'clock with the cardinal as celebrant. He was assisted by Monsignor George W. Devine, of Baltimore, and Monsignor Lee R. Mackin, of Washington, as his deacon of honor; by Rev. Dr. William A. Fletcher, rector of the cathedral, as deacon, and by Rev. P. C. Gavin, chancellor of the archdiocese, as sub-deacon.

Dr. Edward R. Dyer, S. S., president of St. Mary's seminary, was assistant priest. Rev. W. Carroll Millholland, of Paris, was master of ceremonies, and he was assisted by Rev. William J. Carroll, of Washington.

In his sermon Archbishop Glennon, of St. Louis, paid high testimony to the cardinal's life work. He said in part:

"We meet to recite a golden story of fifty years. We meet to greet one who has walked through these fifty priestly years, his feet shod with the gospel of peace and the chasture of priestly deeds like a mantle of charity around him.

"We pause to felicitate the one who comes from out these fifty years, a priest, then, a priest still, and added thereto are these years passed by, the Crozier of America's primatial see, and later still, the robe of a cardinal prince of the church universal.

"And as priest and bishop and cardinal we salute the jubilation of today.

"Priest, bishop and cardinal, philosopher, law giver, chancellor—yes, and yet not through all these high sounding titles overlook that other, the first we notice, the last we forget, 'He hath a tear for pity and a hand for aid as day for meeting charity.'

"Yes, Cardinal Gibbons is a kindly, gentle man.

"Fifty years ago he went up to the altar a priest—then gentle and brave—a priest gentle and brave at its close. May many years still be given him to be Christ's minister, his servant; may many years still be his, wisely to counsel and to guide us."

JOHN M. HARLAN.
Justice of U. S. Supreme Court
Who Died in Wilmington.

DEATH OF JUSTICE HARLAN

Oldest Member of U. S. Supreme Bench Passes Away.

Washington, Oct. 16.—"Goodby; I am sorry I kept you all waiting so long."

With these words Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan, of the supreme court of the United States, often acclaimed the greatest constitutional authority of the day, once a conspicuous figure in national and Kentucky Republican politics and long a leader in Presbyterian councils, passed away, aged seventy-five years. He had been ill less than a week with acute bronchitis.

With Justice Harlan's death has fallen to President Taft the opportunity to select during his single term in office a majority of the members of the supreme court, including the chief justice, a duty that has devolved upon no other president since Washington formed the court in 1790.

Gossip as to the probable successor of Justice Harlan has begun already. Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel is the one most prominently named. Among those mentioned are: George W. Wickersham, attorney general.

Philander C. Knox, secretary of state.

William S. Kenyon, United States senator from Iowa and a Taft progressive.

William E. Borah, progressive Republican senator from Idaho.

Solicitor General Frederick W. Lehmann, Democrat.

Lawrence Maxwell, Democrat, of Cincinnati.

District Judge Gordon Russell, Democrat, of Texas.

Senator George Sutherland, of Utah.

Judge Francis Swayze, of New Jersey.

The German imperial chancellor also attended.

The Italian ambassador had arranged to meet the German foreign minister, Herr Von Kiderlen-Waechter, at the foreign office, to discuss matters connected with the Turko-Italian war, but hastily canceled this engagement upon receiving the emperor's message.

FIVE TOWNS HIT BY STORM

Twenty-five Persons Injured,
Several Fatally.

300 STUNNED IN CHURCH

Scores of Dwellings, Outhouses and Barns Were Levelled by Tornado
That Swept Over Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 16.—Further details of the ravages of the tornado that passed over the western part of the state show that the destruction was more widespread than at first supposed.

It is learned that not less than twenty-five persons were injured, two or three fatally, and that five towns suffered damage.

The town of Hillsboro, northwest of Crawfordsville, was in the direct path of the storm, and not a house escaped damage, while five were destroyed. Fencing, barns, dwellings and outhouses were leveled with the ground for miles northwest of the town and ten persons were injured in and around Hillsboro.

The home of Joseph Roach, four miles from the town, was demolished, but the four children in it miraculously escaped. The roof of the Big Four railway station was lifted off as if it were a piece of paper, and when section men reached the scene after the tornado had passed they found the agent lying under a truck on the platform nearly paralyzed with fear.

Veedsburg and Waynetown were badly damaged, some of the smaller houses being blown down, several unroofed and some moved from their foundations.

At Danville, where only a part of the town was in the path of the tornado, two houses were demolished, several unroofed and two persons were injured.

300 Stunned in Church.

Ten miles west of Kokomo the old order of Dunkards were holding a meeting and nearly 300 were in the church. While the minister was preaching there was a heavy gust of wind, followed by a blinding flash of lightning that stunned every one in the church.

Twenty-one horses were hitched to a rack nearby, and when the worshippers rushed out five of the horses were dead and all the others lay on the ground, some of them badly injured. The hitch rack was formed by a wire cable attached to iron posts at either end.

The town of Ben Davis is virtually a wreck, hardly a house standing in the corporate limits that is not so damaged that it will have to be torn down and rebuilt. Not a chimney in the town is standing and twenty-two homes were utterly destroyed. All that remains of them is worthless.

The tornado, which was headed directly toward Indianapolis, spent its force before reaching the city and was not felt to any extent, except at the suburb of Indianapolis Heights, where two barns were blown down and one house unroofed.

HELD PRISONER IN BED

Neighbors Rescue Delaware Woman,
Victim of Strange Accident.

Dover, Del., Oct. 16.—Imprisoned for three days in a wrecked bed, with in the sound of scores of passersby, but unable to make herself heard, Miss Elizabeth Graham, of Kenton, was rescued, but is hovering between life and death.

Miss Graham says she sat on the bed to undress, when three slats dropped out and the bed, sinking in the middle, bore the woman down and closed over her. Her struggles to free herself only entangled the bedding and covering about the woman.

The following morning her niece, Mrs. Frank Johns, called as usual, but could not get in and departed, believing her aunt had gone on a visit to the country. Two days later it was found that she was not in the country. Neighbors forced an entrance into the house and found the helpless woman almost dead.

Would Abolish Indian Reservations.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—Action was taken at the congress of Indians here to promote a movement for the abolition of reservations and government paternalism, which, it was charged, has retarded the advancement of the red man in every direction. Citizenship for the Indian was urged by Congressman Carter, of Oklahoma. General R. H. Pratt, founder of the Carlisle Indian institute, urged advanced education for the red men who, he said, were capable of the highest development.

Baby Swallows Bean and Dies.

Hanover, Pa., Oct. 16.—While hilling beans in company with several older sisters and brothers, the two-year-old son of James Plunkett, near Littlestown, swallowed a bean, which asphyxiated his death.

Train Hits Handcar; Four Dead.

Toledo, O., Oct. 16.—Four persons were killed instantly, one fatally, and one badly injured, when a northbound Hocking Valley freight train struck a handcar laden with thirteen section men, four miles north of this city.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Cards and Candles.

If a party of guests are invited for Halloween a card and a candle should be provided for each one invited, the candles in as many different colors as possible and the cards decorated in ribbons of corresponding colors, one color for girls and the other color for boys. On the cards future events may be told in rhyming couplets, such as these:

Who gets the candle colored red
Will have long life, but never wed.

If you choose the candle green
You'll have the prettiest wife ever seen.

Each guest should take a card and a candle. The base of the candle having been warmed, it will melt to the card, and by the light of the candle the couplet on the card should be read. And, having read it, hold the card and candle at arm's length and try to blow out the light. It is said that if the light is extinguished on the first trial the person will be married within a year.

The Perplexing Hunt.

Prizes are hidden mysteriously about the house. The seeker for a prize is guided from place to place by some such rhyme as the following:

Perhaps you'll find it in the air.
If no, look underneath your chair.

Beneath his chair he'll find these lines:

No; you will not find it here.
Search the clock and have no fear.

Under the clock he finds:

You will have to try once more.
Look behind the parlor door.

Tied to the doorknob he discovers:

If it's not out in the stable,
Seek beneath the kitchen table.

Under the kitchen table he'll find this:

If your request remains uncertain,
You will find it 'neath the curtain.

And here his hunt is rewarded by finding a nonsensical souvenir appropriate to Halloween.

A Halloween Game.

Flouting needles is a good Halloween game. The needles must be greased or dipped into sweet oil. Small pieces of tissue paper are then floated in a basin of water, and each one carefully lays his or her needle on a piece of the paper. When the paper becomes thoroughly wet it will sink, the needles clumping floating on the surface of the water by reason of the coating of oil on them. Capillary makes the needles act peculiarly, some rushing to the edge of the basin, others attracted to each other and still others repelled from each other, and the way your needle acts toward the others is supposed to be prophetic of your fate, as, of course, the needles are all named.

For the Magician.

Almost all boys are called upon once in awhile to perform some interesting trick for the amusement or mystification of their friends. One of the simplest of these—one of the easiest for a boy to do on short notice—is the coin belt trick, for whose performance are required only an ordinary water glass, a thread, a quarter of a dollar and some sealing wax.

Fasten the coin to the thread with the wax. Then place the elbow on a foot rest and suspend the coin by the thread so that it falls in the opening of the glass. Without moving the arm or the hand the coin will presently begin to swing.—Grit.

Halloween's Fortune.

An amusing game for Halloween is to place three soup dishes or bowls on a table, one of which you leave empty; into another you put clear water, and into the third, soapy water. Each person present is in turn blindfolded, and after the dishes have been moved so as to change their positions the blindfolded one is led forward and told to dip his finger into one of the dishes. If it is in the clear water dish he will be happily married, if in the soapy water he will have many trials, and if in the empty dish he will never be married.

Origin of Certain Names.

Valley Forge.—Village in Chester county, Pa., so named because it is situated at the mouth of Valley creek, where a gorge was erected by Isaac Ports before the Revolution.

Wheeling.—City in Ohio county, W. Va., from the Indian word, meaning a "place of a human head." From the circumstance of the Indians having displayed the head of a white man on a pole at this point. Another authority gives willink, "at the head of the river."—Bulletin United States Geological Survey.

Court Fools.

Court jesters were either misshapen, half imbecile midgets, whose senseless remarks were welcomed with laughter; quick witted, half mad fellows or poor, merry poets who devoted themselves to the task for the income which it brought.

It was their business "in medieval times to entertain kings and nobles with amusing sallies.

One of the early French jesters was Mathurine, a woman.

English jesters made use of calfskin coats, which buttoned down the back and protected them from the anger of those who were provoked at their satirical thrusts.

A fool's cap was adorned with three asses' ears and a cock's comb and worn on a shorn head. He had a wide collar, carried a scepter, and his costume and cap were decorated with bells.

Animals That Smoke.

The writer was extracting solace after the petty worries of the day from his well seasoned briar when it was suddenly revealed to him what sort of creature he really was in an extract he happened across from a work on "The Common Use of Tobacco."

"There are but three kinds of animals which generally use tobacco: the rock goat of Africa, whose stench is so insufferable that no other animal can approach it; the tobacco worm, whose intolerable visage gives to every beholder an involuntary shudder; and the third animal—which is he?"

London Chronicle.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Captain Howe, Yale Star
Back Field Man.

Although Yale has practically lost her entire back field since last season Eli coaches are optimistic and declare that the Blue will have a formidable aggregation behind the line before the big games with Princeton and Harvard. The coaches have some splendid material from the 1910 eleven. Captain Howe and Kistler are the only ones left.

Yale's greatest fortune is the possession of Howe as quarterback. This is his third year on the team. He held down the position on Captain Coy's well high perfect eleven in 1909, and last year he was about all that stood between the team and utter rout.

Women Take Up Rowing on Coast.

According to a report from Berkeley, Cal., a varsity intercollegiate boat race between women crews from the University of California and Stanford is the latest innovation in college athletic activities, and if the present plans of the California women do not miss they will witness the spectacle of two women's crews struggling for victory over a regulation racing course equipped with a regulation shell.

Rowing as a purely local sport has been carried on in the University of California for some time, and interclass races between women crews of the two colleges have been held every year on Lake Merritt as one of the features of the women's day celebration.

Moriarty Boosts Clark Griffith.

George Moriarty, the injured Tiger, is still one of the stanchest admirers of Clark Griffith. Moriarty recently was shown a newspaper story in which Ira Thomas said some nice things about the former Highlander leader, and George echoed Ira's sentiments. "Griff is the finest in the business," said Moriarty, "and this talk about results don't go with me. He knows everything that is to be known about baseball, but is the unluckiest man in the game. I almost believe if the magnates let Griffith have Cobb, Crawford, Eddie Collins, Chase, Lajole and Mathewson, the whole bunch would immediately be caught in a railroad wreck."

Australian Rugby Team Here.

An all star rugby fifteen, chosen from the crack players of the Victoria and Vancouver teams, will play Stanford and the University of California for the American championship in November. Although both Victoria and Vancouver have met the American colleges individually, this is the first time they have combined forces to represent Canada.

Top Receipts For Soccer Game.

Slightly over $13,295 was the greatest amount ever taken in a Scottish soccer cup final match. This sum was drawn in 1903, when Rangers and Hearts met at Parkhead. This was also the last game in which a shilling entrance fee was charged.

FOR SALE BY
at $1.15 per barrel

The close of the present summer season has served to emphasize more clearly than ever the damage to apples—trees and fruit—as a result of infection with spores of the cedar rust. Unfortunately one of the most highly prized of all our fall apples, the Wealthy, seems for some reason or another to be peculiarly susceptible to damage by the rust. Some trees we have noticed during the past few weeks have been well nigh defoliated through infection of the leaves with numerous rust spots, while as a result of this unhealthy condition of the leaves or lungs of the tree the fruit is not more than one-third of its usual size, and scrawny and diseased at that. It begins to look as though, if the owners of Wealthy orchards don't "do" the cedars in the vicinity or spray very carefully, the cedar rust will "do" their orchards. If the rust infestation is as much worse next year than this, as this year's was than last year's, thousands of trees will perish. The problem is one that every orchard owner should look into carefully.

NEED CARE TO MARKET VEGETABLES

A plea for more attention to the manner in which Pennsylvania fruit growers and farmers market their products is made by Secretary of Agriculture N. B. Critchfield in a bulletin just issued by his department. The bulletin contains a treatise on marketing horticultural products by Professor Paul Work, of Cornell University, and the Secretary says the instruction given is needed.

"It is one thing to produce a good crop of anything grown upon the farm and quite another thing to place it on the market in such condition as to be able to secure the most satisfactory price," says the Secretary in introducing the bulletin. "A poorly assorted basket or bunch of vegetables of any kind offends the eye and repels the buyer. Realizing that skill in marketing counts for as much and possibly more than skillful cultivation, arrangements were made for a close study of the question, which it is hoped may prove helpful to those lacking experience. Care in marketing will mean many more dollars in the pockets of the fruit growers and farmers of our state."

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND

The old family doctor, of whom so few are now seen in this age of "specialists," was the valued friend and adviser of his patients. They depended on him to keep them in health, and cheer them with his counsel. He taught them the wisdom of preventing illness by watching closely after the health of the family.

Mrs. S. H. DuBois writes from her home at Hempstead, L. I.: "Vinol is an old friend of our family. We have used it for years whenever any of us need a tonic on account of being in a rundown state of health, and it always gives perfect satisfaction. We have used nine bottles this winter."

There are thousands of families who would and do say the same thing. Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil, has proved its value and strength to vast numbers of weak, rundown men, women and children. That is why we sell so much and guarantee it to give satisfaction. If disappointed you, you can have your money back at once. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

FINE APPLE LAND

"Investment in western apple lands should not tempt a Pennsylvanian," says C. J. Tyson, Secretary of the State Horticultural Association. "I know orchards in this state growing on land that has sold within fifteen years for $50.00 per acre, with good buildings, that will this year pay a net return of about $260 per acre, over 500 per cent. In the meantime these trees have paid off all the cost of growing, including 6 per cent per annum on the investment."

POTATOES FOR EMPLOYEES

The Susquehanna Casting Company's plant at Wrightsville was closed down the other day, on account of the employees receiving a carload of potatoes and dividing them. In looking after the welfare of its employees, the company ordered a carload of the tubers and each man was allowed as many bushels as his family needed for the winter. The potatoes cost about 80 cents a bushel.

TO KEEP PLANTS MOIST.

Simple and Inexpensive Help in Seasons of Drought.
To keep young plants moist in dry weather set a pail or other receptacle of water at the edge of their hill and hang over the edge a rag long enough to reach to the bottom of the pail and to the roots of the plants. Leave this overnight and it will put the water just where it is needed without wasting any. In the morning take away the pail and lay the rag around the roots. This prevents excessive evaporation.

Intemperance is not a word whose dictionary meaning is limited to the use of beverages containing more or less alcohol. It is just as intemperance and often just as injurious to health to rush the coffee or tea pot as it is to "rush the growler." The only difference is that it may be viewed as a little more refined or respectable type of intemperance.

THEY ALL DEMAND IT

GETTYSBURG, LIKE EVERY CITY AND TOWN IN THE UNION, RECEIVES IT.

People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies to-day that relieve, but do not cure. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands. Here is Gettysburg evidence to prove it: Mrs. Frank Tawney, 28 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in my family with excellent results. I publicly endorsed them two years ago and hold just as high an opinion of them at this time. A member of my family was afflicted with kidney trouble for years and probably inherited it. This person suffered a great deal from pains in his back and sides and was unable to control the kidney secretions. A cold always aggravated the complaint. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at the People's Drug Store and their use affected a complete cure."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappear.

Don't neglect your hair. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and you will be surprised at the quick results.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. People's Drug Store Special Agent for Gettysburg.
